

Safer Handling

Anderson Consultancy Training Ltd is a qualified trainer of the McCormack Training Ltd designed programme of Safer Handling of a person. Successful candidates upon completion of this one day course will be able to assess situations, decide whether Physical Intervention is necessary and, if so, chose the appropriate method to be used.

Course Description:

This training is intended for anyone who may need to use physical intervention skills in the workplace. It is aimed at people who have already taken some form of conflict management training (involving non-physical ways of managing and avoiding conflict), but whose job roles put them in a position where it is likely that they also need training in physical intervention skills. These skills are seen as forming part of an overall strategy designed to prevent and manage challenging, aggressive or violent behaviours.

Course Objective:

This training is aimed at the Teaching Sector, NHS staff and anyone who wishes to extend their knowledge and skills whilst dealing with incidents of conflict without infringing current laws. It will enable the candidate to understand the boundaries within which they can safely operate whilst also adhering to organisational policies and procedures.

This training is also relevant to other sectors such as Guards, Bailiffs, and Enforcement Officers.

Learning Outcomes:

- Contact & Withdraw
- Disengagement Techniques
- Non Pain Escorting and Guiding Techniques
- Lead and support
- Team Extraction

Relevant Pre Course:

- Communication Skills
- Conflict Management
